RESEARCH NOTES:

Lago is a town that is part of the province of Cosenza in Calabria. It has 2,800 inhabitants today and is located in a valley 485 meters above sea level. The coat of arms of the town of Lago consists of three mountains (Cocuzzo, Difesa and Virzi surrounding the town) divided by two rivers (Acero and Eliceto) that join as they empty at the Tyrrhenian Sea outlet in Amantea.

Coat of arms of the Municipality of Lago

Lago (CS)

The origin of this town dates back to the 9th and 10th Century when the Arabs were threatening the coastal towns and forced the residents to take refuge on higher grounds. Located four miles above the town of Amantea (originally known as Nepetia), at the foot of the Virzi' Mountain, Lago was founded because of its defensive location and the fertility of its land.

Lago's rural economy was based especially on the cultivation of wheat. In the years following Italy's Unification (after 1861), over 70% of the Italian population were involved in farming. There were three groups: landowners, sharecroppers and occasional farmers (the owners were 400,000 compared to 21 million farmers). There were many large estates (huge extensions of agricultural land) owned by a few owners who monopolized the land. Sharecroppers (locally known as Turrieri) accepted that farm crops and profits be shared with the owner. The sharecropper's wife took care of household chores, such as, weaving and cultivating of silk worms, while the children, instead of going to school, helped as farm hands and in grazing animals (over 90% of the population was illiterate). Three years of elementary school education became compulsory in Italy in 1877 (Coppino's Law). Lago had teachers and schools but many parents did not allow their children to attend them either because they either considered it a waste of time or because their kids were needed in the farm.

Men worked in the fields from before sunrise until night; they lived in small farmhouses, known as "turre" (hence the word turrieri), with their families, where they stored working tools, supplies, seeds, and also kept some animals used for field work or to be butchered to feed them.

Life was simple in Lago; there were no luxury stores, but simple food and colonial stores, tailors, barbers, cobblers, a goldsmith's shop, a pharmacy, the Church of San Nicola, the municipal building, Post Office, Telegraph and a couple of taverns where wine was sold.

8. FAMILY TREES

Each family tree shows the reported children, parents, grandparents and great-grandparents of a family group. In order to reduce redundancy, any family group which is wholly included within another family tree may not be reported separately.

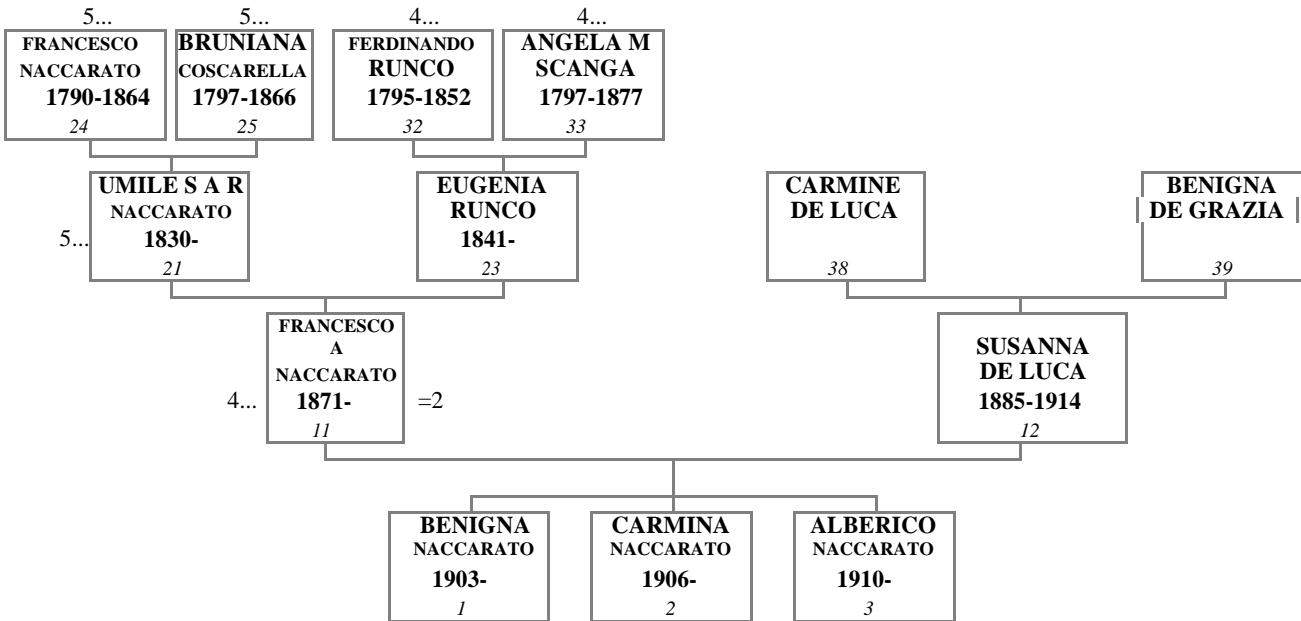

Above each of the great-grandparent boxes (top row), a continuation family tree reference number is shown if the great-grandparent is recorded as a child in the continuation tree. A continuation reference number is also shown to the left of a grandparent or parent box if that individual has siblings reported in the continuation tree; and beneath a child box (bottom row) if that individual has children reported in the continuation tree.

In cases of multiple marriages, a continuation reference number preceded by "=" is shown to the right of a parent box. This number references the previous and/or next tree in which that individual is shown with another partner.

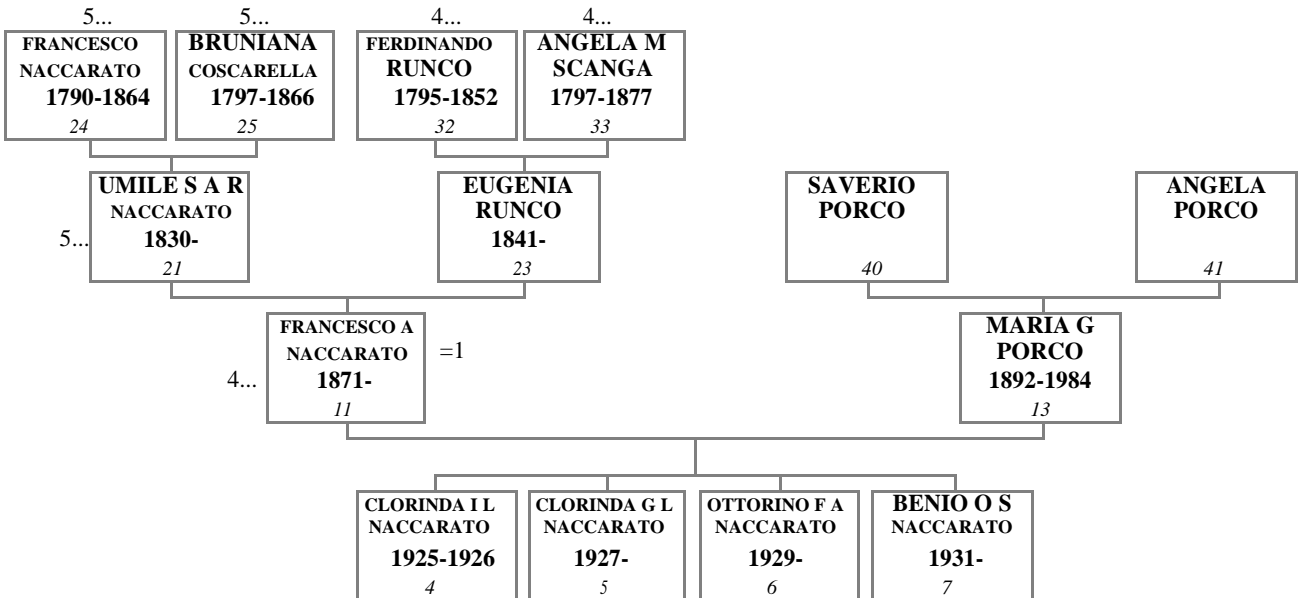

In cases of adopted (or fostered) children, the parental connection is shown with a dashed line and a continuation reference number preceded by "=" is shown within the individual's box. This number references the tree in which that individual is shown with his or her natural parents.
